GOV. BLACK WANTS

PRIMARY LAW KEPT

But Those Who Want Old Convention Plan Will Make Hard Fight

Louisville, Ky., August 30.—The primary election system of making nominations will continue in Kentucky, provided Gov. James D. Black has his way.

During his stay in Louisville yesterday he called on Thomas S. Rhea, Democratic campaign chairman, and the two discussed the coming platform convention.

To a representative of The Courier-Journal, Gov. Black said he had no particular recommendation to make regarding the convention.

Advocates of the convention system are going to make a hard fight to get a plank urging abandonment of the primary into the Democratic platform, it is understood. They oppose the primary system on the ground that it is much more expensive to the candidate seeking a nomination.

They argue that the old-fashioned Democratic convention goes a long way toward bringing Democrats from all parts of the state into close touch and that nominees of the convention are scattered over greater territory, resulting in practically every section of the state being represented on the ticket.

Among those still insisting that United States Senator A. O. Stanley be given a prominent part in the convention programme is Thomas Hatcher, Pikeville, appointed by Senator Stanley as a member of the state board of control. Mr. Hatcher would have Senator Stanley made temporary chairman and Senator J. C. W. Beckham, permanent chairman.

FIFTY TOWNS ON THE PRESIDENT'S SPEAKING TOUR

Washington, August 30.—The itinerary of President Wilson's swing around the circle, with addresses in behalf of the peace treaty in nearly fifty of the principal cities of the country is expected to be announced tomorrow.

It was definitely announced today that the president will leave as soon as arrangements are made and probably within ten days and will spend twenty-five days in laying before the American people his reasons for desiring the immediate ratification of the treaty without change. Although the president desired to greet General Pershing on his arrival in New York early next month, it may be necessary to forego that welcome, as the president considers his tour to explain the treaty of more importance. The president is slated to speak in Sioux City, Minneapolis, Bismarck, Billings and Helena, and then swing down the Pacific coast states to San Francisco, coming home by the southern route and making addresses.

Secretary Taft, in announcing the president's plans, said the president felt that the speech-making was of greater importance than greeting General Pershing somewhere in the West, probably at St. Louis, as the general plan is to go to his old home in Missouri soon after returning from overseas.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bennett entertained a few friends at dinner on Sunday. Those present were: Misses Marissa Foster, of Heflin; Irene Hedges and Artye Bennett; Messrs. Otto Howard, of Nuckola; Paul Shaver and Charlie Foster, of Heflin; Mr. and Mrs. Vasco C. Baird, of Heflin; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gray and daughter, Louise; Mr. and Mrs. William Thorpe, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brown and daughter, Margaret Frances, and Mr. Tim Bennett, of Masonville.—Owensboro Messenger.

ICE CREAM SUPPER AT GOSHEN THE SIXTH

There will be an ice cream supper given at Goshen church next Saturday night for the benefit of the church. Everybody invited to attend.

GAZERS HIGH

The philosophers tell us that it is always best to keep our eyes turned upward and hitch our wagon to a star, and though it may be best, it is not always safest, especially if that star be an aeroplane as was demonstrated at the fairgrounds Saturday. Because two curious old souls were bent on looking heavenward, one suffers a skinned and perhaps broken nose and the other various bruised and aching spots.

Two good old people from the hills heard last week that one of the strange bird men would give a demonstration of his ability with wings at the fairgrounds, so Saturday the twain were there, all keyed up with expectancy, all taut with the agony of suspense. They stationed themselves on the levee at its most precipitous point, where it was impossible for the huge bird to wing its way across the grounds without them getting the best view. They waited, and the moments dragged into hours seemingly. At last they heard the whirr of engines, then the steady buzz of the propeller and somewhere up above they knew the object of their wonder was flying. Autumn sky, flecked as it was with hazy amber clouds and showered with the gold of the setting sun. Their vision was dimmed by the bright light of the afternoon and unconsciously they crowded nearer to the edge of the levee. At last, scanning the sunlit distances, they spied a wee small speck which grew larger as it approached, then took on a definite shape, like a great dragon fly with whirling pinions, smoke issuing from between its teeth, and the sound of its engines like the rush of the coming storm. They were all astir. Trying to crowd closer to catch a better glimpse they went over the levee, both man and woman, and encountered the craggy rocks below. In the mire, while attempting to free themselves from the weeds, dust and broken rocks, they lost sight of the twentieth century wonder which had now flown far away. They picked themselves up, a sadder and wiser couple.

STEAMER W. W. HAS BEEN SENT TO LOUISIANA RIVER

The Steamer W. W. which was recently sold by Frank Rounds to the Ouchita River Navigation Co. of Monroe, La., has departed for its new home. The boat is under command of Captain G. A. Holloway, of Louisiana. Captain Rounds accompanies the boat as far as Evansville as pilot. Mr. L. J. Martin, engineer, C. Johnson and Guy Bug, of the crew are also making the trip to the South.

With the departure of the W. W. Owensboro is left without a single steamboat of any size. Neither are there at the present time any boats making this city their port that the Steamer Hazel Rice now in call. It was reported recently that the Kentucky river trade had been purchased to be placed in the Green river trade out of Owensboro, but it is now understood that the deal has not yet been closed.

AVIATOR DROWNED IN AERIAL DERBY

Mineola, N. Y., August 30.—Eleven American entrants in the international aerial derby had completed the thousand mile flight to Toronto and return when darkness and storms on the route from Albany put an end to further arrivals tonight. Six arrived between 5:30 and 8 o'clock. Eight of the thirteen airmen who started at Toronto end of the journey had completed the round trips tonight. Interest in race, however, is overshadowed by the news of probable fate of Lieut. H. G. Slater, who is believed to have perished in Lake Ontario. No trace has been found of the aviator.

FUNERAL AT PROVIDENCE

(Herald Special) Rev. M. G. Snell, who was engaged in a meeting at Olaton, was called home to preach the funeral of Mrs. Serena M. Coleman, the wife of James Coleman, of this place. She was 71 years old, had been a number of the Baptist church ever since she was fourteen years old.

County Democratic Convention Saturday

The Democrats of Ohio County met in mass convention at the Court House in Hartford, on Saturday, August 30th, 1919, pursuant to the call of the State Central and Executive Committee, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State Democratic Convention to be held in Louisville on Thursday, September 4th. The Convention was called to order by the Chairman of the County Executive Committee, Prof. Ozma Shultz, who explained the purpose of the meeting and asked for nominations for permanent officers of the convention. Thereupon Prof. Shultz was elected permanent Chairman and McDowell A. Fogle permanent Secretary of the Convention. Upon motion by Judge W. H. Barnes, duly seconded and carried, a Committee upon resolutions was appointed as follows:

Judge James S. Glenn, Messrs. F. P. Bell, L. B. Tichenor, Erik Fulker son and Clarence Patton. The following resolutions were reported on behalf of the Committee, by its Chairman, Judge Glenn.

The Democrats of Ohio County in Convention assembled do declare:

1. We endorse the action of the State Committee in calling this Convention and the State Convention.

2. We endorse the administration of Governor A. O. Stanley, and its efficient conduct of public offices.

3. We heartily commend the zeal, fidelity and devotion to the Senators from Kentucky, J. C. W. interests of the people of the able Beckham and A. O. Stanley and our Representative from this District, the Hon. Ben Johnson.

4. We unreservedly endorse and approve the National Administration under President Woodrow Wilson, and point to the following accomplishments of a Democratic Administration during his term of office:

It has established our monetary system on a firm and substantial basis that is proof against Wall Street and Bankers' Panics and that automatically furnishes an elastic currency, every dollar of which is as good as gold, sufficient to conduct the business of the Nation, and has removed from the arena of party politics the money question—a system so perfect that even a Republican can find no criticism of it and that has stood unshaken during four years of the greatest and most destructive war of all history.

It has enacted a Land Loan system that is of inestimable benefit to the farmers of the Nation in furnishing money to buy and improve their farms, at an exceedingly low rate of interest and on easy payments, thus saving them from the ruinous interest of the money sharks and foreclosure and loss in case of bad crops or sickness and misfortune.

It has given Agriculture a new life by the Department of Agriculture and the live man at its head and the system of Farm Demonstrators.

It has given labor the eight hour law, thus enabling him to have some leisure time for his family and for self-improvement. It has raised the standard of living and the moral tone of those who work in the mines, factories and fields. In eighteen months it fought to a successful finish the greatest

SCHOOL OPENED MONDAY

Hartford Graded and High school opened Monday after about fifteen months vacation. The reason for this long resting spell was the epidemic of influenza which closed all the schools last year and Hartford school did not reopen. However, this year the prospects are good for an interesting and profitable session. A good faculty is in charge and the school started off with a splendid attendance, more of course to enter later.

At the opening session many citizens of the town were present and gave words of encouragement to the pupils and promised cooperation with the teachers. Among those who spoke were: County Superintendent E. S. Howard, C. O. injured.

MACCABEE PICNIC AT WILLIAMS GROVE LABOR DAY

The Womans benefit association of the Macabees gave a picnic at the grove at Williams mines Monday, in honor of the returned soldiers and sailors. A sumptuous dinner was served and there was a large crowd present. A brass band and a string band furnished good music throughout the day and there were two ball games played in the afternoon, McHenry and Echols, or the L. G. & E. team, in which McHenry came out the winner and then McHenry crossed bats with Beaver Dam and was defeated to the tune of seven to two.

All kinds of refreshment were to be had on the ground. This picnic was quite a success and speaks for the ability of the McHenry Ladies and for the lodge.

SAY MODESTY WILL I REVEAL IN DANCING

New York, August 30.—Modesty and respectability will prevail in dancing from now on, according to the official forecast at the second annual convention of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, held here today. Three hundred members from all parts of the United States and Canada attended and Fenton Bott, president of the association, voiced the prediction.

The old waltz is coming back, is already back," he said, "and there will be no new dances, only a few modifications. For instance, ladies who have been pushed backward over the ballroom floor too much will go forward on a fifty-fifty basis with the men."

BASKET DINNER

On the 20th of this month a basket dinner for the benefit of the returned soldiers and sailors will be given at the fairgrounds. The Fair company has offered to donate the use of the fairgrounds and furnish ice, etc. A local Cross lecturer from the front will lecture as will also a Salvation army canteen worker. A local organization of the American Legion will be affected that day. The public is invited to be present and bring baskets. An aeroplane will probably be here and make a flight. Come out and help by bringing well filled baskets.

FAIR LAST WEEK

The Ohio County Fair came to a close Saturday after three days of interesting meetings of people and three days of a well-carried out program. The races were good, the floral hall exhibits were above the average and the airplane flight, in which many citizens took part, was an event within itself. A number of Ohio County's "land-lubbers" became airmen to the tune of a ten dollar bill, and all seemed to enjoy it. The first two days the rain cut down the attendance to some extent but the last day it was far above the average.

BRO SNELL AT OLATON

(Special to Herald) Rev. M. G. Snell, of Centertown, is holding a meeting at the Baptist church at this place with fine results. He has done some fine preaching and is loved by all the people here, both saint and sinner. We are having the best meeting that's been here for a long time. Bro. Snell was called home Friday to preach a funeral but arrived back Saturday night.

FINE CHICKENS

Mrs. Leslie Combs, of near town, has one of the finest flocks of chickens in the county. She has in all over four hundred in the flock, all of the purest strain and fat enough to make gravy for a king's dinner. Mrs. Combs devotes a great deal of care and attention to the raising of poultry and has been remarkably successful.

MR. WILL NEWBOLT DEAD

Word has been received here of the death of Mr. Will Newbolt who has been making his home in Tulsa, Okla., for two years but who formerly lived here. No particulars have been learned except that his death was due to a relapse with Typhoid fever. He died Saturday night and will be buried in Tulsa.

TOBACCO MUCH BETTER

THAN FIRST EXPECTED

Weed Has Come Out Wonderfully Since July and Will Exceed 1918 Crop

Tobacco growers are enthusiastic over the improvement which has been shown in tobacco here during the last month, and especially since the fine rain of a couple of weeks ago. Farmers now predict that the crop this year will exceed last year's crop in size, but will also be of better quality.

It was at first feared that the recent rain would damage the color of the tobacco, but it does not seem to have been sufficient to cause the dark, green second growth which farmers feared. The weed was on the other hand wonderfully improved in color and was given further weight.

Cutting is becoming rather general throughout the country at present, but most farmers will not start cutting until next month. Farmers around Curdsville, Sorgo and along the Henderson road are beginning to cut. The tobacco has suffered more in that section of the county than elsewhere. In the eastern part of the county the crop is in splendid condition while Hancock county is said to have fully as good a crop this year as has Daviess county, which is rather unusual.

Farmers and tobacco men are beginning to speculate on what the price of tobacco will be when the local market opens. The general opinion seems to be that the prices for the better grade of tobacco will be as high, if not higher, than they were last year and that the price of poor and medium grades will be off.

This opinion is borne out by reports from the North and South Carolina markets. Good tobacco on the eastern markets is said to be selling this year fully as high as last season. Poor and medium grades have, however, undergone a decided slump being down, it is said, about $10 on the hundred. Prices in the North Carolina market are usually taken as an indication of what prices may be here, as when the prices are high there the tobacco buyers usually buy heavier in this section to substitute for the Carolina weed.

A number of local tobacco buyers are now in North Carolina. Among these are Cecil Clarkson and William Hartford, W. M. Jones, Jack Griffith and Robert Clark, buyers for the Winstead company and Clyde Bell and David Clark, buyers for the Imperial company.

FINE TOBACCO PATCH

Esquire Leslie Combs, who lives south of town, has one of the best fields of tobacco that it has been our pleasure to see this season. He has in all about ten acres in one field and his plants are of such evenness as to give the impression that one is looking over a level floor of black-green. The tobacco has been cultivated intensely and shows the effect of good farming. Mr. Combs estimates that the field will average over eighteen hundred pounds to the acre. He is cutting and housing the weed this week. The uniform size of the stalks and the broad heavy leaves impressed us as marking it as the best grade of dark tobacco. Probably there are as good crops in the county as this one but so far we have not seen one.

PRESIDENT'S SWING AROUND STATES IS
"MORE IMMINENT"

May Not See Pershing Nor See
First Division March Under
New Plans

Washington, Sept. 24—President Wilson's proposed trip to the Pacific coast in the interest of the peace treaty is "more imminent than it has been in the last few weeks," in the view of administration officials.

As between going to New York to meet Gen. Pershing or reviewing the 1st Division in Washington as the case may be, and going before the country, it was said by persons close to the President to-day that he would consider the speech making tour of more importance.

Secretary Tumulty was expected tomorrow to discuss with the President the feasibility of making "the swing around the circle" even at the expense of being unable to greet Gen. Pershing or to review the 1st Division.

It is considered probable that the President will decide to leave Washington in time to review the Pacific fleet at San Francisco the middle of September. The date of the fleet review has been postponed twice to coincide with the President's expected arrival on the Pacific coast.

CAVELL EXECUTION LEGAL UNDER MILITARY LAW

Baltimore, August 30.—The execution by the Germans of Miss Edith Cavell, the English nurse, which aroused the indignation of the allied world, was in accordance with the laws of "civilized warfare," according to the minority report of the committee on military law of the American Bar association.

"This being so," said S. S. Gregory, of Chicago, chairman of the committee, "it seems quite inconsistent with our condemnation of those who thus took her life to retain in our own system of military justice those provisions of law which were relied upon by the German military authorities in ordering her execution." The mere fact that her trial was attended by the brutality and duplicity, which commonly marked exercise of military power by the German command, does not alter this aspect of the case."

BELGIAN MONARCHS TO START TO U. S. SEPT. 22

Brussels, Sept. 2.—The Soir says it learns that King Albert and Queen Elizabeth will leave for the United States September 22, and that it is their intention to stay there one month.

At the American embassy, however, it was said to-day that the date of their departure for America had not yet been made known.

Cardinal Mercier, who will leave for the United States September 2 in company with Monsignor De Wachter, his auxiliary bishop, and Prof. De Wulf, will remain there two months.

BREAKFAST FOOD AIDS POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Steubenville, Ohio, August 30.—Notice, candidates!

Here is the way a Steubenville candidate for office did it, and here is how he figured:

He purchased enough packages of breakfast food to go 'round and then had his card placed therein. They were passed from door to door. He figured that when the family ate the corn flakes, they would at least feel kindly toward him.

CINCINNATI GRAND JURY
INDICTS STORAGE VIOLATORS

Cincinnati, August 30.—Ten indictments charging violation of the state cold storage law, were returned by the Hamilton county grand jury today.

Five of the indictments are against Swift & Co., of Cincinnati, and five against William Alexander, butcher of this city. The indictments each contain three counts making a total of thirty counts in all.

"It Must Have Been Dead at Least 6 Months But Didn't Smell."

"Saw a big rat in our cellar last Fall," writes Mrs. Joanny, "and bought a 25¢ cake of RAT-SNAP, broke it up into small pieces. Last week while moving we came across the dead rat. Must have been dead six months, didn't smell. RAT-SNAP is wonderful." Three sizes, 25¢, 50¢, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by

BIG FEATURES MARK WAL-TER L. MAIN CIRCUS TODAY

Walter L. Main's Fashion Plate Shows arrived Clearfield over the Pennsylvania this morning and shortly after daylight the work of unloading and transportation of paraphernalia to the show grounds began under the supervision of the usual army of small boys.

Everything about the outfit was spick and span, the stock was in fine condition and things soon took on an old time hue when the circus wagons marked Walter L. Main commenced trundling over our streets.

Clearfield people have been familiar with the Main circus for the past twenty-five or thirty years and have reason to know that the name Walter L. Main is a guarantee of the very best of the circus line.

The street parade at 12:30 was a very creditable pageant.

The large crowd attracted to the show grounds on Levy Avenue this afternoon were well repaid for their trouble and were privileged to witness one of the best circus performances seen in Clearfield in many years. Mr. Main has gathered together a highly creditable aggregation and everyone in this afternoon's large audience was more than pleased with the high character of the performance and the general conduct of the show throughout.

All the old-fashioned features were given and the different performances were up-to-date in every particular.

Some of the Main features and which attracted more than ordinary interest were Dottie Snyder and her troupe of tamed elephants; Hollis, DeMott and Waller, the three world's champion bareback somersault riders; Etta Myer and her posing horses; death-defying aerial acts and big wild west show.

The usual army of clowns were on hand to delight the kiddos and the entire performance was all that could be desired.

The show is clean and moral, no gambling or other objectional features being allowed on the grounds. Another big crowd will attend this evening's performance.

To show their hearts were in the right place, the management offered exclusive and free Liberty Loan advertising for the parade.

HOME AFTER SPENDING
$50,000,000 IN A. E. F.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Maj. Jack Morris, Pineville, Ky., served as disbursing quartermaster at the advanced general headquarters in Treves, Germany, following signing of the armistice, arrived in Washington to-day.

He landed in New York Friday on the transport Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, after having been overseas a year.

During the time that Maj. Morris was on duty with the American expeditionary forces he disbursed upward of $50,000,000. He was formerly secretary to former Gov. Augustus E. Wilson and held other State offices.

KENTUCKY MARINE IS DECORATED FOR VALOR

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 2.—Theodore Keller, Lexington, formerly Sergeant in the 5th Marines, was this afternoon awarded the Distinguished Service Cross by Lieut. E. C. Boyce, in charge of recruiting in Kentucky and Indiana for the Marine Corps, for conspicuous gallantry in battle.

Following is the citation that accompanied the medal: "For extraordinary heroism in action near Barrieourt, France, November, 1918, working through three desperate counter attacks of the enemy, Sergt. Keller established liaison with the adjacent division, maintaining contact with his flanks at all times, despite the hazard under which he worked."

Of this amount $1,800,000 is asked for Camp Knox, in Kentucky.

CITY'S HIGH TITLE

Cuban Capital Given Long Name, by Royal Decree.

Has Been Considerably Shortened to Havana, but That Was Not Its Appellation in 1634—Place Had Remarkable Growth.

The full name of the capital of Cuba is San Cristobal de la Habana. In 1634 a royal decree conferred upon the city the sounding title, "Llave del Nuevo Mundo y Antemural de las Indias Occidentales" which signifies "Key of the New World and Bulwark of the West Indies." In emphasis, the coat of arms of the municipality bears a symbolic key and representations of the fortresses of Morro, Punto and Fuerza.

Havana is one of the several towns founded by the governor, Diego Velasquez. He placed it upon the south coast, where the town of Batabano now stands. It was shortly removed to its present position and rapidly it grew to be the chief center of the island and one of the most important places in the new world. La Fuerza, the oldest fortification in the city, was erected near the close of the sixteenth century. Shortly afterward, Philip the Second of Spain ordered the construction of the Punta and Morro forts, for the protection of the harbor, and at about the same time the official residence of the governor of the island was transferred from Santiago de Cuba to Havana.

In 1650, the population of Havana was hardly more than three thousand, but in the following two or three decades it doubled, owing to a large immigration of Spaniards from Jamaica. During this period, the city rose to be the commercial center of the Spanish-American possessions, and the principal rendezvous of the royal fleets that carried on the trade monopoly between Spain and America. The walls enclosing the city were commenced in 1671 and finished 30 years later.

A map of the city at the beginning of the nineteenth century strikingly illustrates its rapid growth. Then the residences were almost all intramural, or within the walls. Large estancias and huertas occupied ground which is now intersected by paved streets and covered with substantial buildings.

The first impression made upon the visitor is of the massive character of the architecture. This characteristic is more pronounced than in any other Latin-American city. The building material generally used is a conglomerate of marine material, which hardens on exposure to the air. It is hewn into great blocks, and so used in construction. Walls are usually covered with stucco or plaster, and colored in a variety of tints. Roofs are either flat, or built of the old Spanish tiles. The effect, which is enhanced by the presence almost everywhere of trees and shrubs, is pleasing in the extreme.

The most interesting portion of Havana is that which formerly lay within the walls. The houses here have for the most part been converted into business purposes, but a few persons still cling to their old homes—Forbes Lindsay, in "Cuba and Her People of Today."

General Townshend's Triumphs.
Like a palm tree in the arid stretches through which he fought stands out the selection of Gen. Charles V. F. Townshend to bear to the agents of the allies the Turkish offer of surrender, observed the New York Herald recently. Two years and a half ago, almost to a day, General Townshend and 6,000 men, the remnant of his army of 50,000, ran up the white flag in Kut-el-Amara after a siege of 143 days and surrendered to the Turks, while 40,000 other British soldiers 16 miles away battled ineffectually to break through the Turkish ring to the beleaguered force.

Now General Townshend has obtained his satisfaction. That he, a prisoner of war, should have been selected to carry this fateful message, fatal to all Christendom, as well as to what remains of the Turkish empire, is a unique tribute to a gallant soldier from the government he and those under his command served so faithfully.

New Soldier.
Gen. Leonard Wood said at a dinner in Washington:

"A new soldier is apt to be nervous, apt to make mistakes, but this is no sign of cowardice. It soon wears off."

"A new soldier was having his first experience of night duty. The password was 'discount.'

"As the soldier paced back and forth in the darkness, a black figure suddenly bounded up before him.

"Halt! Who goes there?" he challenged.

"A friend," was the reply.

"Advance friend," said the new soldier. Advance and give the discount."

Missouri Mule Always There.
The Missouri mule was in the war long before the Missouri soldier entered it. The declaration of war was made for him in 1914, two years and a half before Pershing and the thousands of other Missourians got their orders to wheel into line. He had made a brilliant record there before his appearance. But, according to the London advices, he seems to have felt the impulse of Missouri behind him at the last, for it is written: "The mule shared in the big British advances on the western front this fall and proved his grit and worth by keeping right up with the rapidly advancing artillery." That is a Missouri characteristic.

OLD AND NEW BATTLE NAMES

Hard to Bestow Appropriate Appellations Upon Conflicts Having Wide Fronts.

There seems to have been little trouble in the past in naming battles, although even Waterloo is called Quatre Bras by the French. But on the whole a name seems to have attached itself to a battle quite naturally, like Blenheim, Talavera, Jena, Leipzig, and Trafalgar.

But in the great war, where a battle extended over weeks of time over a forty-mile front, including many villages, and sometimes several objectives in the shape of big towns, the difficulty of naming a battle with a name that is universally recognized is extreme.

The names which have actually settled down completely and taken their place in history are the battle of the Marne, the two battles of Ypres, the battle of Verdun, the battle of the Eight, the battle of Jutland, the battle of the Somme, and that seems almost all.

The battles of the later phases of the war have hardly settled down to a name yet. Probably the battle in which the Vimy ridge was stormed will be known as Arras; but the battle of Messines will probably be a sticker, just as the Chemin des Dames will live in French annals for all times.

Perhaps the great battle which at the time seemed disastrous to British arms, commencing on March 21, 1918, will go down to history as the battle of Amiens, while the battle of Cambrai may stand for all that heroic recovery which brought the British to their final victory.

GOT WEARY OF "FLU" TALK

Visitor to Indianapolis Very Much Fed Up With Conversation Relating to the Epidemic.

L. B. Andrus of Grand Rapids, Mich., chief of the Merchants Heat and Light company, is laboring under the impression that some "Hoosier jinx" was trailing him Wednesday evening.

While taking dinner at a hotel he was surrounded by delegates to the casket manufacturers' convention. After hearing them discuss their business, which discussion naturally had many references to the influenza epidemic, he concluded it was no place for him.

As the evening rolled on, he began debating with himself the question whether the epidemic was going to get him, so he decided to take a Turkish bath. He had only been there a short time when a sick-looking individual came in, and in a conversation with Mr. Andrus said that he had only recently got over a severe case of the influenza, and he had been advised that a Turkish bath would get the poison out of his system and assist him to recover more rapidly.

When he was talking with this man, another man came in sneezing and coughing and inquired of Mr. Andrus whether he thought a Turkish bath would prevent a fellow from getting a bad case of the influenza.

By this time Andrus said to the attendant: "Get me out of here as quickly as possible. I have given about as much time as I care to spending at the flu conference to prevent being at the flu conference."

Civilization Fatal to Eskimos.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, to whom the Charles P. Daly medal was presented by the American Geographical Society for his "valuable contributions to science," pleaded that no efforts be made to civilize the Eskimo tribes of the far North. All such previous efforts, he stated, had resulted disastrously for the natives. One tribe of 5,000 discovered in 1825 by an English explorer, he said, was now reduced to only 40 persons through adoption of a civilized mode of living, which was unsuitable for the frigid climate.

Wonder What Poe Got for It.

Quite a while ago an author, Edgar Allan Poe, contributed a story to Grammer's Library of Fiction, No. 1. But it hardly occurred to him that some day a collector would pick up an old copy of that periodical for 25 cents and presently sell it to somebody else for $1,000. Probably it is just as well that it did not, for the knowledge might have disconcerted him with his own modest emolument for writing a classic.

$216 for a Thackeray Letter.

A sale of autographs and manuscripts was held at New York recently. Charles Scribner's Sons paid the top price, $216, for catalogue No. 234, a letter of William M. Thackeray to John Oxenford, asking him to come to a dinner in celebration of the completion of "Vanity Fair." The total for the sale was $2,752.45.

The Lives of a Cat.

A mother had two sons, one in France, the other attending a university near home. The son in France was wounded and naturally the mother felt grieved over the incident, and being of an excitable nature, telephoned her other son: "John, come home at once. Ted is at the front being killed every minute."

Unreadable Signatures.

General Pershing recently gave orders that the typewriter signature is required hereafter on all official orders and indorsements by American military men in France because of the fact so many officers write their names "so blindly that it is difficult to make them out." General Pershing purposes to waste no time in deciphering written signatures.

FRENCH KING FIRST IN FIELD

Writings of Thomas Paine Show That Henry IV Once Contemplated League of Nations.

While President Wilson, Lloyd George and other statesmen are talking of a league of nations the following, taken from Thomas Paine's "The Rights of Man," is historical:

"It was attributed to Henry IV of France, a man of an enlarged and benevolent heart, that he purposed about 1610 a plan of abolishing war in Europe. The plan consisted in constructing an European congress, or, as French authors style it, a pacific republic; by appointing delegates from the several nations, who were to act as a court of arbitration in any disputes that might arise between nation and nation.

"Had the plan been adopted at the time it was proposed the taxes of England and France, as two of the parties, would have been at least ten millions sterling annually to each nation less than they were at the commencement of the French Revolution."

Here is also part of a letter addressed to Lafayette from Paine, February 9, 1792:

"If you make a campaign the ensuing spring, which is most probable there will be no occasion for, I will come and join you. Should the campaign commence, I hope it will terminate in the extinction of German despotism and establishing the freedom of all Germany. When France shall be surrounded with revolutions she will be in peace and safety and her taxes, as well as those of Germany, will consequently become less."

LAWS PRINTED IN GERMAN

How the State of Indiana Catered to the Teuton Element in the Fifties and Sixties.

Time was when the Indiana general assembly directed that its laws be printed in German as well as in English—but never more, observes the Indianapolis News.

In 1852 the legislature enacted a statute that its laws passed at that session should be printed in German and one copy distributed to each of the clerks of the judicial circuits. By joint resolutions of the senate and house the session laws of the special session of 1853, the regular session of 1859, the regular session of 1861, the special session of 1861, and the regular session of 1867 were printed in the German language. The revised statutes of 1853 were ordered printed in German.

Mrs. Edward Franklin White of the law editorial department of the Bobbs-Merrill company, believes the printing of the acts in German was no part of the propaganda for "kultur," which has been so exposed of late, but she rather believes that Indiana was making a special bid for settlement by Germans along with other foreigners who were westward bent. She says all sorts of inducements were held out in the fifties and sixties to attract colonization in Indiana and cities, as another of the inducements, the lax constitutional provisions (constitution of 1852) for obtaining citizenship, or at least the right to vote.

Gas From Wheat Straw.

One of the scientists of the University of Saskatchewan, who has been experimenting for some time with the manufacture of gas from wheat straw, has been able, by a gas bag attachment of 300 cubic feet capacity, to run his motorcar with perfectly satisfactory results. It is estimated, says the Saskatchewan Herald, that a ton of straw will generate 11,000 to 12,000 cubic feet of gas and that 300 cubic feet of gas is equal to a gallon of gasoline, so that with this hitherto waste product on his hands the farmer will be able to run his car.

Not a Modern Gun.

"What were you going to do with this revolver?" asked Walter Pritchard, judge of city court.

"Shoot rabbits," replied Abe McMurry, colored, age seventeen, 356 Fayette street, who was on trial charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The judge examined the weapon, which was a small one, and noticed that the barrel would not revolve automatically. He called the defendant's attention to this fact, and was told that it would revolve if turned by hand.

The judge still appeared undecided, then finally remarked: "If this was a real gun I would fine you $100 and costs, but since it is only about half a gun I will make the fine just half the usual amount." Then he wrote $50 and costs across the face of the affidavit.—Indianapolis News.

Japanese Activity in Siberia.

Canadian papers are commenting on the activity of the Japanese throughout the maritime province of Siberia. Agents of Japanese syndicates are reported to be negotiating for the purchase of a large number of mines, flour mills, brickworks, sawmills and other industrial undertakings, while commercially they are making every effort to extend their influence. The Japanese firms, which for the most part have only recently been established at Vladivostok, are enlarging their operations and endeavoring to obtain a large share as possible of the trade of the territory. The scouts of these firms are reported to be scouring the country for scrap iron, hides, wool, bristles, beans and other Siberian and Manchurian products required in Japan.

VALEDICTORY

With this issue I end my active connection as editor and business manager of the Hartford Herald. For over a year it has been my privilege to occupy this position during which time I have made acquaintances and associations, both business and social, to whom I think I owe this little message of adieu.

It is because of no personal malice or friction with any stockholder or owner of The Herald that causes me to take this step; on the other hand my connection with the paper has always been the most pleasant, and the honest operation and unity of purpose has existed between me and those I represented. But as I have a business that takes the major part of my time, leaving only a few hours to devote to the paper—during which time I cannot do justice to the work—and feeling that my whole energies should on the whole be devoted to the pursuit of my profession, which is a God-given one—these reasons, I say, constitute the sole grounds for my resignation.

I trust that my work has been satisfactory to you, my readers, upon whose judgement rests the failure or success of any publication. I have endeavored to give you a paper that was a chronicle of local events, with a sufficient admixture of world happenings as to make it of interest to those who have not time nor inclination to wade through the voluminous pages of the dailies. In policy, I have endeavored to pursue the conservative course. I have tried to be outspoken in commendation of what I believed to be right and condemnation of what I believed to be wrong, and no one can accuse me of handling wrong with gloved hands or suppressing rightful and legitimate information. But, believing rabid radicalism as dangerous and unreasoning as ultra-conservatism, I have held aloof from those petty brawls which sometimes characterize the county press, belittle it in the estimation of the public and lessening its influence. In short, I have tried to pursue a course of sane and straightforward reason, appealing to the more sober judgement and more considerate sentiments of my clientele. Whether this has proven the wise or the foolish course, time will tell.

I appreciate beyond the feeble power of words to express the assistance and co-operation my readers have given me. Their help has been invaluable and without them The Herald could not have held the high mark of excellence which has been its boast. I shall still contribute to the paper such essays or articles as are deemed timely or time to time feature articles dealing with the different sections of the country which it may be my good fortune to visit. But as active editorial manager, my work is over. To you I commend my successor, feeling sure that he will render to you as good service as I have endeavored to deliver and in many ways surpass me. And it is with real affection for you, as a reading public, and a genuine tenderness of feeling, that I say, goodbye!

WALTER GREEP.

The County administration is going to give the people a financial statement. Really! The Hartford Republican, the constant apologist for administrative inertia, reminds us that we should brush up on the times, and in disparaging our ignorance, smugly and gravely puts us to shame for our failure to appreciate the efforts of the court in doing what it was driven to do by popular disgust and indignation. Most of the County's administrative work is done behind the door and so we must be pardoned for not finding this out sooner. But we really are glad the court has decided to give the people a chance to see their own bank book, however poorly it balances.

The calling of the Labor and Capital congress by President Wilson is significant and promises to be of far reaching effect. By bringing capital and labor together, a settlement can be made which will be lasting.

The earnest admonition of a fool sometimes saves a life where the more philosophic precepts of the wisest could not enter.

As an example of man's inconsistency, Labor Day is proclaimed a day of rest.

ADJUDGED INSANE

Today, September 1st, Eva J. Embry, wife of L. L. Embry, of Baileytown, was brought here, and after examination by Drs. Taylor and Ford, and a court of enquiry, was adjudged to be of unsound mind and ordered transferred to a medical institution for treatment.

The above Eva Embry has been affected for the past several years but has been treated at home with no relief except temporary. The climax of her disease was reached a few days ago when her neighbors began to circulate reports of unbecoming conduct. We hope this will be a lesson to people of every community to know the mental condition of their neighbors before expressing an opinion that would detract and casts a gloom on innocent children and near relatives.

COMEDIANS OF OLD GREECE

Status Found in Tombs Show That Funmakers Were Much Like
Those Applauded Today.

The finding of some statues in an ancient Greek tomb is an opportunity for comparing the comedians of old times with those of today. The statues are believed to date back to the fourth century B. C. They are quite small—in fact, few of them measure more than six inches in height—but owing to the careful modeling they are still quite lifelike in spite of their extreme age. These little figures represent the funny men of that time, and it is curious to note the resemblance to the oddities of Charlie Chaplin.

One associates flowing robes and stately walk with the Greek actors, but these players are shown wearing short trousers and with an obvious caricature of a stately gait. Nothing was sacred from these comedians; even the greatest men of the day were subjects for their wit, which they carried to extremes. A good example of this is a statue of one of the funny men as Hercules, who was universally admired and venerated in ancient Greece. He is shown wearing his leopard skin lightly over one shoulder, with his finger in his mouth, looking coquettishly round him.

The costumes of these little figures must have been brilliant; there are still faint traces of pink and yellow on the terra-cotta of which the statues were made.

FOOD SUPPLIES IN COMMON

No Eskimo Allowed to Go Hungry
While His More Fortunate Brothers Have Plenty.

The arctic explorer, Dr. Donald B. MacMillan, who returned recently after four years spent in the arctic regions, has many interesting things to say about the domestic and social customs of the Eskimos.

All property is owned in common, he tells us. When you enter a village you are not invited to come in. It is your right to enter and, if you are hungry, to help yourself to something to eat. If you happen to visit a house where a poor hunter lives, he says, "Nurket-turunge (Nothing to eat)." He does not go hungry, however, because his neighbors have some, and he lives on his neighbors. Everything is divided up that way. If all the villagers are good hunters, their supplies last a long time, but if some are poor hunters, the clever fellow must share with them.

An Eskimo does not eat three meals a day and sleep at regular intervals. He eats when he is hungry, and sleeps when he is sleepy, and he puts it off as long as he can, so that he will enjoy it all the more. He will go around for six hours talking about how hungry he is, and then he will set to work and eat all he can. It is the same way with sleeping. He will go without sleep for 48 hours, and when he cannot keep his eyes open any longer he turns in for a 24-hour snooze.—Youth's Companion.

London's Sea Gull Visitors.

London's winter visitors, the sea gulls, have arrived particularly early this year. Never since the hard winter of 1895 first impelled them high up the river, and into hitherto unknown regions of parks and private gardens, have the birds omitted to make their yearly call to the Serpentine and Kensington gardens' round pond. On the river, of course, the gulls, single or in flights, have been regular habitues for many years, perhaps centuries. Feeding the gulls from the bridges is a favorite occupation for many a Londoner, or rather it used to be, for now the feeding of birds is forbidden, on the ground of waste, by the defense of the realm regulations. The gulls will have to shift for themselves this winter, and Londoners' reputation for hospitality will suffer accordingly in the bird world?—Christian Science Monitor.

Beaten To It

"Germany, confessing her wickedness and protesting her repentance, reminds me of a rascally fortune hunter," said the director of military aeronautics, General Kenly.

"This fortune hunter was describing his pursuit of a Pittsburg heiress.

"In proposing," said his listener, "you ought to have told her, George, that you were unworthy of her. That bait seldom fails."

The fortune hunter gave a gloomy laugh.

"Yes, I was going to tell her that," he said, "but she told it to me first."

Tough on the Private.

Having heard that our soldiers in France lack soap, a Portland (Me.) girl sent to a sergeant major of the Fifty-fourth a package of soap leaves, and received in due time a letter from the sergeant major in which he expressed surprise that the girl hadn't remembered that he never smoked. He added that he had given the packet to a private who "rolls 'is own," and the private liked to have died of nausea.

Largest French Port.

Marseilles has at present in the vicinity of 1,000,000 inhabitants, and it is the largest port in France, as well as one of the wealthiest industrial and commercial centers. It is a distributing market for numerous products required in southeastern France and the French African colonies, but in the case of toys Paris controls the trade.

FRENCH TREATY

IS HELD LEGAL
Advisers of Upper Body Report
Treaty Is Valid In Every Phase

Germany Still Is Peril

Washington, Sept. 2.—There are so constitutional obstacles to the making of the treaty for defense of France, as proposed by President Wilson, according to a report by a special sub-committee of Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate.

This is the committee which advises the Senate on legal and constitutional questions. The treaty is the one under which the United States pledges itself to go to the support of France in the event of an unprovoked attack by Germany.

Furthermore, the committee declares that though Germany is beaten for the present, "nothing but force is likely to restrain her from seeking world dominion at the earliest opportunity," and adds that "aside from England, no country under present conditions is more vitally interested in preserving the integrity of France than is our own."

Text of Report

The text of the subcommittee's report on these points follows:

"It is evident that Germany in the recent war aimed at crippling and the destruction of France, our ally. Our country entered into the war on the primary and technical grounds that Germany had invaded, attacked and partly destroyed our commerce on the high seas, and had sought to sever our commercial intercourse with both France

England, as well as with other portions of Europe.

"The menace came from Germany and it was a continuing menace. To remove that menace, both for the present and the future, it became necessary for our country to co-operate with France, as well as England, in the great struggle. Without their aid we could not by ourselves have vanquished Germany. It was, moreover, evident that if France and England were destroyed or seriously crippled, Germany would have a free hand against our country and our commerce and we would be to a greater or less extent at her mercy.

"While Germany has been vanquished, she is still, by reason of her great resources, her large population and her military and imperialistic spirit, liable to be a menace in the future, for nothing but force is likely to restrain her from seeking world dominion at the earliest opportunity. Compared with France, her losses in the war were moderate.

French Losses Greatest France, with a population of little more than half of Germany, lost in killed over 1,200,000 of her population and in crippled and brother, and in introducing the wounded more than twice that number. One-fifth of her territory was devastated and reduced to a wilderness by German armies. She was devasted and reduced to a wilderness by German armies. She incurred a debt so large as to strain her credit to the utmost and to make it a most serious problem to liquidate the same.

In resources and in man power

Germany is nearly double that of France, and if left free and untrammeled, in the unrepentant mood she seems to be in, she could, in the near future, easily overrun and cripple, if not destroy, France, if for the interest of our country that France should be allowed to recuperate and recover her old time vigor, for she will then be a great shield and protection to us against the German menace in the future, and besides, she will be a great source of profitable commercial intercourse.

Aside from England, no country under present conditions is more vitally interested in preserving the integrity of France than is our own country. What we propose to do for France by the proposed treaty, England also is ready to undertake."

The subcommittee report adopts the general argument which is made by Senator Walsh, Montana, and Nelson, and Kellogg, Minnesota. Other members of the committee are Senator Fall, Republican of North Carolina, and Senator Overman,

Democrat of New Mexico.

SINGING AT BETHEL

The singing convention of the eastern Division of Ohio County met at Bethel church, near Horton, Sunday. An immense crowd was present and many choirs participated in the exercise. We do not know who led the others and captured the honors, nor do we know who was adjudged the best, but from our viewpoint, all were good. This was the first meeting of the kind "we editor" ever attended and he trusts it will not be the last. The whole day was pleasant, the dinner, served in old-fashioned country picnic style, was "scrumptuous," the singing was above the average and the meeting and mingling of people from the different sections of the county made it a delightful social affair. May there be many another singing convention and may we attend them all!

Mrs. Ralph who has been on an extended visit to her daughter, Mrs. Charlie Duff, of Sulphur Springs who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kit Austin have returned to their home.

Mrs. Nancy Ashford is visiting her daughter, Mrs. O. C. Daniel, at Olaton, she will also visit her granddaughter, Mrs. Corrine Day, of Sulphur Springs before returning home.

FARMERS CHAUTAUQUA

The Farmers Chautauqua at Beaver Dam this week is a success from every point of view, attracting some of the largest crowds ever known to attend a meeting of this kind in this county. People from all sections of the county are attending both the afternoon and night meetings. The speakers on program are the bests and thoroughly able to put their subjects before the people in the proper light. This Chautauqua certainly speaks well for Mr. M. L. McCracken the county agent, who has pushed this meeting forward and has worked continuously and tirelessly for the success of the affair.

BALTZELL-BAUGH

Miss Mattye Baltzell and Mr. Yewell Baugh were quietly married last week to the surprise of their many friends here.

Miss Baltzell who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baltzell, of this place, held a responsible position at Graham, Ky., and Mr. Baugh is with Uncle Sam's Navy. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Baugh, of Louisville.
